Miss Voss lost hearing at the age of 17. Has been associating with the deaf lately and learning the sign language,

Oh dear, dead days. The world was filled with various sounds To me so dear, Life seemed one long, bright, happy day,

A memory comes to me tonight

When I could hear. The rapturous songs of happy birds,
The hum of bees,
The plaintive whisper of the wind Among the trees.

The faint, sweet sounds of distant chimes. The thunder's roar; The waves low-sobbing as they broke Upon the shore.

In fancy I can hear tonight Songs soft and low, Which mother oft at evening sang, So long ago. It seems but yesterday I heard

Her low, sweet song; But years have fled—I scarce can think It is so long. The world's a world of silence now; The bird's soft trill, And mother's songs, and evening chimes, Are hushed and still.

And yet I feel each day how good God is to me; 'Tis true I can no longer hear,

But I can see

The glorious light that floods the sky At rise of sun,
And misty purple shadows fall
When day is done.

Been kind to me.

Beauty in every form is spread

And lowly, reverently, I breathe "Thy will be done." When this strange earthly life is o'er, Death's angel dear Will bear my soul to realms of bliss, Where I shall hear.

LOS ANGELES.

Due to the fact that the birthday of Thomas H. Gallaudet fell on Sunday, Saturday evening, the 9th inst., was the occasion of a grand banquet at Paulais', 741 South Broadway, to commemorate him to whom the deaf owe an unceasing debt of gratitude, as he was the first man to provide for their education. Close to one hundred fifty covers were laid, the table being decorated with red and white carnations, and a large picture of Thomas H. Gallaudet was hung on the wall. In front of each place there was a white card with the name "Gallaudet" in large black letters. The inside of the card showed the menu on the left side, and on the left the names of the speakers in their order.

WANTED-AN AUDIENCE OF 100 REPRESENTATIVE DEAF WITH $100 or MORE TO INVEST or LOAN at 6%

An opportune time now presents itself There are many farms for sale just now on account of the "drought" and low prices for farm products. There's little reason for a "drought," if a farm has enough humus and is farmed right. Most farms are farm ed wrong or farmed-to-death. The average farmer has not the time nor land to spar to fallow. My plan is to buy a few of thes farms, fallow half and work half by rota tion and vice versa, lend tenants mone to trade on a cash basis (the credit system has been the ruln of many), put houses and fences in condition, then trade or resell. This requires from one to three years. Rents will pay interest and improvements. I own an 8-mule deep tilling machine. Have tried the plan and have sworn statements as to its success.

This is not a get-rich-quick scheme Lender's principal and 6 per cent will be fully secured and guaranteed. If sufficient leaf are interested, I shall organize Company and have same incorporated (in Arkansas), so as to preserve and protect the ender's rights and interests.

For further particulars kindly write me stating amount you migh invest. No obligation on your part, however. JOHN E. PURDUM,
